A paradox lies close to the heart of scientific discovery. If you know just what you are looking for, finding it can hardly count as a discovery, since it was fully anticipated. But if, on the other hand, you have no notion of what you are looking for, you cannot know when you have found it, and discovery, as such, is out of the question.

Here's another great example of how Donald Trump never really delivers on his big talk. On April 10, Trump made a show of signing two executive orders (hey, have you noticed how rarely he ever signs actual legislation, approved by Congress, the way the Founding Fathers intended to take place in the democracy they created instead of the monarchy from which they seceded) that he said would ...
